The CW code requirement has kept me out of ham radio for over thirty years. The long and short of it I have beaten my head against the wall trying a physical impossibility for me - to learn CW. Until this requirement is dropped entirely for U.S. Citizens I will not even attempt anymore. This includes all classes of licenses in ham radio. For years the FCC has defended this archaic requirement by telling us this is due to treaty. Now there is no excuse. It should be completely removed as a requirement.
